

You've reached POINT MERIDIAN, the transition "zone"™ for men experiencing an age-related testosterone decline, clinically referred to as Andropause. The recent deluge of high-profile scandals involving rich and powerful men "committing less than scrupulous acts" has prompted global inquiry into the state of masculinity. In an age of infidelity and unconscious perversion, have these unsuspecting entertainers, athletes and politically "incorrect"™ lost their moral compass? Or, is the inexplicable behavior a result of a broader issue that's escaped the public radar for eons? Medical professionals are beginning to align their beliefs that Andropause "the condition resulting from declining testosterone" not only exists, but has become one of the most challenging transitions in a man's™ life. It has been estimated by some researchers that as many as 25 million men in the United States, between the ages of 35 " 65, have entered the zone completely unaware and its wreaking havoc in their lives and those whom they love. POINT MERIDIAN begins a discussion about the perplexing phenomenon that has physical and physiological effects ranging from mild mood swings to depression and suicide. The GOOD NEWS! Andropause is a treatable condition. Doctors and mental health professionals agree that men can succeed into second adulthood as healthy, wiser and more accomplished human beings.
